

An aerial architectural rendering of a city layout. A central river flows through the scene, with a red line indicating a transit route (likely a tram or light rail) crossing it. The city is composed of various white and grey building blocks of different heights and shapes. Green spaces, including parks and sports fields, are interspersed among the buildings. A school building is labeled 'SCHOOL' in two locations. A sports field is labeled 'ARC TURHAN'. A bus is visible on a road. The overall style is clean and illustrative, typical of urban planning presentations.
